* You can perform many common operations in Photoshop with the use of a single click. You can even use the Magic Wand tool in a customizable way to ensure that only the pixels you want are edited. * You can use the Healing Brush to remove blemishes, and the Clone Stamp tool to replace them with a similar color. * Using the liquify tool, you can easily deform or reshape objects to give them a new appearance. You can also use the magic wand to select specific parts of an image, add a thin black layer, and make that the mask for the liquify tool. * People will often use image-editing software to fix photos of themselves to show off a new outfit, add new eyes, change skin color, or even give themselves a different hairstyle. Figure 1-24 shows several options you can use with Photoshop's blur filter to modify an image that will help it achieve a soft feel without losing important parts of the image. Figure 1-24: Blur filter options offer a variety of different effects that help a photo achieve a soft, low-key look. Blur filter options are listed in Table 1-15. Table 1-15

Blur Filter Options	Option	Effect	Strength	Controls
Strength	---	---	---	Controls how much of the detail in the image is blurred. As strength increases, blur increases. It's a percentage between 0 (no blur) and 100% (maximum blur).
Radius	---	---	---	Controls how much blur the blurred version of the image will have. Think of it like the blur thickness of an object on a lens. Too small and you don't see the full effect; too large, and you get blurry edge features. A radius between 0 (no blur) and 100% (maximum blur) is used to control the blur size.
Pucker Factor	---	---	---	Controls the thickness of the blurred edges. (At this point, that is what it controls.)
Smooth	---	---	---	Controls the level of detail that shows through the blurred version of the image.
Figure	---	---	---	Controls the mode that defines the type of blur to apply to the blurred version of the image.
Motion	---	---	---	Selects whether the blurred version is created from the camera shutter speed or from the video. You can also create a composite blurred image from several images taken with different shutter speeds.
Dodge or Burn	---	---	---	Selects

Q: force wxwish to draw updated processIcon in dialog I'm trying to display a dialog that contains an application, whose process icon is updated frequently. So, it is necessary to redraw the process icon in this dialog. However, when I draw it by myself, the process icon does not change. Therefore, the dialog behaves as if the process icon is not updated. (all icons keep their old status). Is it possible to force wxWidgets to display redraw the process icon? A: No, it is not possible. The application must not redraw the process icon itself (since the dialog's child window is already drawing it). However, the WXWish library is not capable of drawing an icon for itself (it uses the Windows API to do that). You will have to redraw your own icon yourself, or ask the dialog to redraw it. An ongoing effort in our laboratory is to study functional elements of the genome of the Neotropical cichlid fish Teleostei of the tribe Cichlini (phylogeny). In particular, we study the evolution of genetic alterations and the spread of mobile elements in these fishes. In our most recent study we investigated, using classical and molecular cytogenetic methods, interspecific hybridization and the chromosomal effects of embryonic aneuploidy in the genus Amphilophus from the Rio Juruá, Amazon basin, and also compared these results with those of analyses of the Cichlidae. Karyotype evolution: hybrid fish between the A. amphilophus and A. guarani species groups ( $2n = 72$ ) possessed the karyotype of A. amphilophus ( $2n = 70$ ) but with a small pericentromeric inversion in the G-banding pattern. FISH analysis with the W chromosome-specific, single-copy W-genomic probe confirmed the inversion

Q: Symfony: If controller returns a Response that is not an array In a controller I have the following query: `$this->entityManager->find($entityName, $entityId); $tmp = $this->getDoctrine()->getManager()->newQuery(); $result = $tmp->select('c')->from($entityName, 'c')->where($tmp->expr()->eq('c.id', $entityId); $this->getDoctrine()->getManager()->flush();` This is fine. The query works and gets results. But I'm confused as to what to do if `$entityName` is not an entity and so I cannot use `$this->getDoctrine()->getManager()->newQuery()` and the entity manager is not available. How would one return a response from a query in this instance? Obviously I can make the controller return a response and then dump the query information to it, but is there a 'direct' way to do it? A: `$entityName` is an Entity? You can use `$result = $tmp->select('c')->from($entityName, 'c')->where($tmp->expr()->eq('c.id', $entityId);` So what you can do is: if (!`$entityName instanceof Entity`) throw new `\InvalidArgumentException("entityName should be an instance of Entity");`

$manager = $this->getDoctrine()->getManager(); $entity =
$manager->getRepository($entityName)->find($entityId); if (!$entity instanceof Entity) throw new \InvalidArgumentException("entityName should be an instance of Entity"); $tmp =
$manager->createQuery(); $tmp->select('c') ->from($entityName, 'c')
->where($tmp->expr()->eq('c.id', $entityId); $result = $tmp->getResult();
$this->render('path_to_view', [
