The isA() check evaluates the object type, but what if the object does not have a type field (id/name)? $data = new \stdClass(); var_dump(isA($data, "myClass")); // true var_dump(isA($data, "myString")); // true var_dump(isA($data, "MyObject")); // true var_dump(isA($data, "MyObject")); // true A: isA() uses object_get_class() to find out the class name. There is little middle anymore, and there are no more difficult decisions to make, because we all know that once you start the process, in this body, the process will find you no matter where you are. So now, it is time to put work ahead of party, to put country before party, to do what is hard and what is good and to do what must be done. After deliberation and consultation, tonight the Senate votes to begin debate on a bipartisan bill that will reauthorize our Nation's laws ensuring that an enemy combatant cannot be held indefinitely without charge or trial. The bill has the support of a majority of senators from both parties. This process is an acknowledgement that sometimes we have to work with those who we don't agree with. So it is an acknowledgement of our differences, but also an acknowledgment of how narrow our differences have become. But let me say again, it is not the party line. The vote tonight is a statement of principle. The bill now moves to the House of Representatives.
