10 Feb 2008 11:20:04 +0000 is our first true review. We have actually played the first really big game in quite a while, and we are impressed. We were initially worried about how it would play out, but it seems to have played out pretty well. Recently, thirty-days-rpg has produced a very pretty product. If you played our preview, you'll know that this is down to them being quite a functional group of people who have spent considerable time on this game. We are well aware that there is a very odd thing going on in how this game looks. It's a little like the series of polka dots on the sides of cupcakes and cakes; they resemble just one square but one so, you know, identical. It is rather remarkable how overcompensating you'd have to be not to make a game that is accused of being simple and uninteresting look the spindles on the front of each tier. Regardless, despite the looks, it's a good game. If you are tired of reading, then we recommend going to their site and checking out one of their recent launch trailers, or at the very least, their press information thread. There should be plenty of good stuff there. We would also recommend you check out thirty-days-rpg's own site. It has a terrific amount of information about the game and the development process. If you are interested in doing a pre-order there, it's below the fold. If you are interested in a look at some of the other topics we cover - our forums - are also down the page. So let's take a look at what you get for your money. We have chosen the SLIGHTLY MORE EXPENSIVE version of the game, in order to get you guys the gift that was promised to us for doing this review. Keep in mind that if you do want the pet, the special edition, or anything else that the site has up for preorder, this is a good time to consider it. We only got the regular version of the game - you can buy the game for $39.95

The Nokia 1100 is one of the earliest features phones around but at the time had one unique feature that other feature phones didn't have: an integrated Web browser. It was the 4th-generation Internet, however small. Funnily enough, this early device was released the same year as the Apple Newton PDA. At the time, the idea of holding a mobile phone in one hand and giving orders to a personal computer in the other seemed scary
