Field of the Invention The present invention relates to electronic packaging technology, and more particularly, to an improvement of a semiconductor device and a method of manufacturing the semiconductor device. 2. Description of the Related Art Multi-chip module (MCM) technology is a packaging technology of mounting a plurality of semiconductor chips on a package substrate and connecting them with a wiring member, by which the quality of products is stabilized and miniaturization and high-density mounting is facilitated. Among MCM packages, a ceramic dual in-line package (CERDIP) has such a structure that a plurality of semiconductor chips are mounted on a ceramic multi-layered substrate and the semiconductor chips are connected with each other by wirings formed on the substrate, the ceramic multi-layered substrate being fabricated by stacking a plurality of green sheets, each having a via hole corresponding to each wiring. The CERDIP is described in Japanese Patent Laid-open Publication No. 9-130689 (JP, 9-130689) (Patent Literature 1). In Japanese Patent Laid-open Publication No. 9-130689 (JP, 9-130689), there are disclosed a manufacturing method of a ceramic multi-layered substrate and a semiconductor device. This method is an improvement of a manufacturing method of a ceramic multi-layered substrate disclosed in Japanese Patent Laid-open Publication No. 8-305991 (JP, 8-305991). The manufacturing method of a ceramic multi-layered substrate disclosed in Japanese Patent Laid-open Publication No. 8-305991 is as follows. FIG. 8A to 8C are sectional views showing the manufacturing process of a ceramic multi-layered substrate in the order of steps. In FIG. 8A, after a plurality of metallic plates 151 are arranged and connected by means of soldering on a substrate in which the holes 151A are formed in the same shape, the holes 151A are filled with green sheets 152 and the metallic plates 151 are made for ground. In a world where everyone is expected to be a prolific and informative speaker, this may feel like a rather limited amount of time. But thanks to great commencement speeches, it doesn't always have to be that way. When it comes to memorable commencement addresses, there's a fine line between looking like you're winging it and really saying something substantive and powerful. As the time ticks down to your own graduation ceremony, the last thing you want is to run through your commencement speech in 25 minutes. You want something that can be both meaningful and memorable, but doesn't feel like your 15th conversation about the future. When you look for a commencement speech to inspire the graduates that day, you should be looking for an unconventional speech that's not only relevant but well-crafted. Here are five commencement speeches that prove that it's possible to have an impactful 25-minute commencement speech. 1. John F. Kennedy's "Ask Not" Commencement Speech The New York Times' legendary political reporter and media critic, David Halberstam, wrote an essay about the original Kennedy commencement speech, "Ask Not," in which he suggested that the 1963 ceremony was a good place for Kennedy to call people to action. In fact, John F. Kennedy shared his own "Ask Not" speech from his first commencement ceremony at Andover. While the Kennedy name has been tarnished somewhat in recent years, his commencement speeches have inspired many. In 1963, his speech about "Ask Not" was short and simple, which the Associated Press called "amusing and touching." What's unique about Kennedy's speech was the emphasis he put on the word "ask." When Kennedy said, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but ask what you can do for your country," he

I am looking for a solution that could either write to a text file or check in the database. I am aware of how to check single log files (in this particular question). I am looking for a way to check elmah logs in my web application. I am using the NLog logger A: According to the official source on the Elmah site, all the information is in the Microsoft.Web.Webpages.HttpContextBase.Log property, so there's no difference between an individual request's log and the log for the application.
